this place, as were the kings Carlos IV and Fernando VII. There is evidence that Princess María Luisa Fernanda de Borbón stayed at Casa de Postas.

At the present, after a profound restoration carried out between 2009-2010, it has been transformed into Centro Cultural Casa de Postas. A space that houses inside, the Municipal Theater 'El Molino', the Library, as well as different rooms that keep their original name: Guest Court, Carriages Court and Gañanía Room. Spaces, where exhibitions, educational and cultural events and flamenco festivals take place.

Tourism

The proximity to important localities, make El Cuervo a perfect starting point to know an interesting part of Andalusia.

Jerez, located about 20 km from El Cuervo has all kind of tourist attractions. A city with a long wine tradition (D.O. Jerez), a world reference for horse culture (La Real Escuela Andaluza de Arte Ecuestre is a prestigious equestrian school that organizes horse shows and has a carriage museum) and a great exponent of flamenco. Its historic center surrounds the Alcázar de Jerez, an Arab fortress of the 11th century. For wine lovers, you can visit some of the most famous worldwide wineries in this wine area. Motor lovers can visit the circuit of Jerez. If the trip is made with children, the zoo of Jerez is also a good option. Walking through the cobblestone streets of Jerez is a pleasure for all the senses and an opportunity that should not be missed.

The Doñana National Park is considered one of the most important natural protected areas in Europe. Important crossroads for migratory bird routes between the African and the European continent, it is also the last refuge for many endangered species. (Iberian lynx)

Around 45 km away is Sanlúcar de Barrameda, located on the left bank of the Guadalquivir river estuary, in front of the National and Natural Park of Doñana, a city full of monuments where the maritime trade has left a "colonialist" type of city. It is also the cradle of another essential wine in the Andalusian culture, the Manzanilla.

Around 35 km away is Arcos de la Frontera, considered one of the most beautiful villages in Spain. Arcos owes its current appearance to the Muslim culture. You can visit the Old Town through narrow and steep streets, declared Historic Site, where monumental jewels are preserved, such as the Castle of the Dukes (15th century), Puerta de Matrera (11th-14th centuries) and the remains of the walled enclosure. Arcos is the entrance to "the White Villages", which encompasses wonderful routes through beautiful towns of the Sierra Norte de Cádiz where the white lime that paints the walls of each town gives its name to this route.

The city of Sevilla, 72 km far away from El Cuervo, is the capital of the Autonomous Community of Andalucía. Its current population is around 700.000 inhabitants, which makes it the most populated city in Andalusia and the fourth in Spain (after Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia).

Its old town is the largest in Spain and one of the three largest in Europe along with Venice and Genoa. Its historical and monumental heritage and its diverse scenic and cultural spaces make it a host city for national and international tourism (the third most visited city in Spain.) Among its monuments of international fame, are the Cathedral of Sevilla (which includes the Giralda), the Alcázar (which includes a wonderful garden surrounding), the Archivo de Indias and the Torre del Oro, many of them declared World Heritage Sites.
